

Tim is a lifelong educator who clearly recognizes the need for balance between intellectual pursuits, a sound body, and a strong moral character. During his span of over forty-two years in the field of education, Tim has taught and coached at the high school and collegiate levels, having been an English and Physical Education Instructor, a Department Chair, a Counselor, Dean of Students, Assistant Principal, Athletic Director, Associate Principal, and Principal. In addition to his accomplishments in the field of education, he was named Nevada State Coach of the Year in football on two separate occasions and has had the opportunity to have coached two College All-Americans and one High School All-American. Tim also served on the Nevada State High School Rodeo Association Board of Directors and was appointed by then Governor, Jim Gibbons, to serve on the SPARTAN (Schools Prepared and Ready Across Nevada) task force, tasked with creating a statewide safety and security plan for all Nevada Schools.
